

Testing out Word as an xmlrpc blog client

Posted At : May 14, 2012 2:45 PM | Posted By : Tim Garver

Related Categories: How Too's

So far so good. It seems that this is very straight forward to setup and use.

I have been using word for some time now for work so this seems like a good option.

In my other post, email client I went over the code I used to create an email xmlrpc client. All though that term is not correct.

I feel like it would be more of an email responder, but none the less it works and so does Word.

I was shocked to see something from Microsoft just work 😊